THEATRICAL OFFERINGS

VARIED BILL IS GIVEN AT BIJOU BY NOVITIATES

FIRST MATINEE FOR CHILDREN ATTRACTS MANY

Seven was the number of acts put on at the Bijou theater last night, each one a genuine amateur, and each one a winner, judging from the fact that each act received a goodly portion of applause. Some of the acts were entitled to all the applause they received; some—well, what's the use? Everybody tried to do his best and neither an angel nor a mule could do more. The fun was fast and furious and no one could possibly have left the theater dissatisfied.

Diversity was one of the strong points of this vaudeville program. There were balancing feats and grand opera, musical selections, instrumental and vocal, some comic and others that savored of the sentimental—also, there was Billie Jones. Guess who's Bill? said the advertising, and the audience, at least a large part of it, is still guessing.

Tonight is another night at the Bijou and another set of amateurs will strive for premier honors. The three winners selected by last night's audience will be pitted against the three which will be selected tonight and tomorrow night the half dozen will have a "show down" for the big cash prizes that have been offered by the Bijou management.

There is also a selected program of photo-plays.

Flowing in through the wide doors of the Liberty theater this afternoon went a torrent of youngsters to see the initial show of "Better Movies for Children" offered by Clinton Pedrick and accepted Thursday afternoon by an inspecting delegation of interested mothers, school teachers and leaders in the new movement.

Announcement of the first matinee this afternoon had been previously made in many of the schools, although most of the approximate attendance of 2000 was obtained by personal solicitation. Such leaders of the movement as Mrs. Clifford Kimball, Mrs. F. R. Day and Mrs. F. J. Lindeman were especially blessed with the interest shown at the beginning.

Showing Manager Pedrick's appreciation of children's needs in the movie line, about 50 women who were his guests Thursday afternoon to inspect today's tentative program unanimously selected his offering, with but one exception. To obtain a substitute for the latter Mrs. Lindeman and Mrs. C. Montague Cooke saw several reels which were run off by the Liberty operator this morning.

"Mr. Pedrick is cooperating with us in every possible way and his only wish is to give us what we want," said Mrs. Lindeman this morning, "and the first program arranged by him was excellent. The one picture which we thought could probably be eliminated for something better was also objected to by Mr. Pedrick himself after he had seen all of it."

For several weeks there will be a trial program each Friday for children, starting at 2:30 with a 10 and 15-cent admission price. The program for each Friday will be previously viewed by two women selected each week as a board of selectors by the new organization.

ENRICH IS GOOD HAWAIIAN TYPE

In the role of Margaret, the daughter of the slums, who as the center of the story in "The Dragnet" becomes a series of troubles with a man who is attempting to break her out of counterfeiters, Miss Vivian Wheeler Oakman, Alian W. Fred Merriam are members of the strong supporting cast.

"The Dragnet" is a gripping story of the underworld. It was a faithfulfulness to detail that led to the imagination. From a burning building, a raid on a barricaded gambler and several hand-to-hand encounters add interest to the unfolding story.

G. M. Anderson has returned to Empire in another of his brilliant dramatic successes. Anderson is the central figure in a late Broadway play.

Happy Little "Bud" Duncan, a favorite comedian, is starred in the roaring farce, "Minnie, the Tiger."

The 6-year-old daughter of Salvatore Adorno, who owns four moving picture houses at Middletown, burned while playing at a bonfire Sunday, died yesterday.

FIRING SQUAD CANNOT SCARE THIS ARTIST

One of the most sensational programs of vaudeville ever given in this city is promised at the Bijou theater commencing next Monday evening, when Hugard & Company open for a limited engagement. Hugard is heralded as "Australia's greatest magician," and, according to his advance notices, he and his assistants are as full of new and novel tricks as the proverbial dog is of fleas.

It is difficult to imagine a man facing a firing squad and giving the command "fire" after a select committee has examined rifles and ammunition which is supplied by "the men behind the guns." The loads are marked and the men shoot and the bullets almost pierce the heart of Hugard. However, whether the heart is one of stone or whatever it is, the bullets drop to the floor and he is uninjured. An examination of the bullets then finds them to be warm, while the same is true of the shells in the rifles. Some folk may think there is a trick in this and possibly there is. Hugard is noncommittal on that point. However, it is done, and it is something sensational and brand new to Honolulu.

A musical program that is also new and novel will be rendered by this company and the bill should be one of the best ever brought to this city. Reserved seats are now on sale at the Bijou box office.

More people are spending their vacations in national forests this summer than have ever done so before, many persons traveling long distances by automobile in order to camp in these public playgrounds.
